2. Plasma Cars: Made by Ottawa toy company PlaySmart, these funky, brightly coloured cars come in pink/orange and blue/green combos and kids from age 3-10 can't help jumping on, and wiggling their way across the room with these dynamically designed ride on toys. Terrific for driveways and basements, and learning some great coordination skills. "One of our biggest sellers, by far," says Dayton.

3. PerPlexus by PerPlexus: while this round plastic maze-within-a-ball toy is targeted for the 8-12 crowd, kids from 2-92 will have fun navigating the silver ball through the plastic tunnels, bridges and curves in this labyrinth type game. "It can be hard to find toys that 9 year old boys like which aren't in a gaming system", says Dayton. "But this one will keep them entertained for hours."

4. Crazy Forts by Crazy Forts: This was the #1 best seller in 2008 at Indigo. This 69-piece kit allows kids to build their own forts and they can attach sheets and other coverings to it. All kids love to build and find their own space, and this reasonably priced ($49.95) toy allows them to create without having to re-arrange the living room couches. There are endless combinations and structures to discover.

5. Bubblegum Factory by Scientific Explorer: Kids can make (and then chew) their own bubble gum, creating new and unique flavours and colours. "There are some terrific science elements involved with this toy", says Dayton. Perfect for a cold wintry afternoon in the kitchen.

Turn your BlackBerry Smartphone into a fun game for babies and toddlers...

And some of the best toys for kids you might find...without going to the store. If you have a BlackBerry Smartphone you're thinking of "retiring" for a new upgrade, download the SuperBabyGO application before you take it off-line. This application turns your BlackBerry into a fun game for babies and toddlers - they push any key and get a fun screen response. You can load this on to your active BB as well, and the app is designed to disallow little fingers from calling China or deleting your email files. Visit <http://zeebu.com/wp/>

Or use that handheld to visit www.chaptersindigo.ca; shop on-line by December 18th and have it all under the tree by Christmas.
